Road to harmonized international cooperation

How we respond to the global challenges we now face will determine whether human civilization progresses or stagnates.

The G7 members should concentrate on working to ensure a more equal and fairer world rather than telling others what to do.