

Gur Ofer
(A short bio)

Gur Ofer is Harvey M. and Lyn P. Meyerhoff Emeritus Professor of Soviet Economics, at the Departments of Economics and of Russian Studies, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel. (www.economics.huji.ac.il) He was one of the founders of the New Economic School (NES) in Moscow, a graduate school of economics in the Western transition, established in 1992 (www.NES.ru). For many years he served as chair of its International Advisory Board. In 2004 he stepped down and remained a member of this board.

Gur Ofer wrote his Ph. D. dissertation at Harvard under Simon Kuznets and Abram Bergson, and worked extensively on the Soviet economy and the socialist system, and more recently on issues of transition, its relations to economic development. Among his many publications are: The Service Sector in Soviet Economic Growth: A Comparative Study. Harvard UP, 1973; The Soviet Household Under the Old Regime: Economic Conditions and Behavior in the 1970s. (With Aaron Vinokur). Cambridge University Press 1992, a study based on in depth interviews of Russian immigrants; "Soviet Economic Growth: 1928-1985: A Survey Article." JEL, December 1987; Reforming Planned Economies in the Integrating World Economy. (With Barry Bosworth), The Brookings Institution, 1995. "Development and Transition: Emerging but Merging?" Revue D'economie Financiere, (Special Issue), 2001. The Economic Prospects of the CIS: Sources of Long Term Growth since 1991 (Co-Editor with Richard Pomfret) Elgar Books, (2004). Over the years he served as a visiting scholar, among others, in Harvard, Columbia, Yale, The Rand Corporation, the Wilson Center, the Brookings Institution, the World Bank and NES.

In Israel Gur Ofer worked on issues of the Welfare State and of Health Economics and is head of The Israel National Institute for Health Policy and Health Services Research (www.israelhpr.org.il). He served as a department chair and president of the Israeli Economic Association.

Gur Ofer was born (1934) and educated in Jerusalem. He is married to Dalia, a Professor of History at the Hebrew University; they have four daughters and 6 grandchildren. His email address:

msgur@mscc.huji.ac.il

Tel: +972 2 5865 889

Fax: +972 2 5870967