

László CSABA is distinguished professor of international political economy at Central European University and Corvinus University of Budapest, honorary professor of economics at Szent István University/Gödöllő, as well as Member of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, between 2012-15 also of the social science section of Science Europe/Brussels, and since 2013, of Academia Europea/London. Author of 13 books, editor of 6 volumes, as well as 391 articles and chapters in books published in 22 countries. In 1999-2000 President of the European Association for Comparative Economic Studies. On the editorial board of 10 international and 7 Hungarian academic journals. His academic work invited 154 reviews and over 2000 independent citations internationally. His recent output includes the book: Válság, gazdaság, világ/Crisis, Economy, Globalization/.Budapest:Éghajlat Kiadó, 2018, as well as the chapters: 'Liberalization: Waves and Counter-waves in Postcommunist Change' in: KOLLMORGEN, J.et al eds/2019/: Handbook of Political, Social and Economic Transformation,Oxford University Press; 'The limits of Europe: lessons from postcommunist experience for post-Brexit Union' In: ANDREFF,W.ed: European Comparative Economic Studies: A Thirty Years Assessment.London: Palgrave, 2021; and 'Unorthodoxy in Hungary: an illiberal success story?'Post-Communist Economies, special issue, 2020. For more info cf his personal web: www.csabal.com